

A accurate description of fjord - research

fjord - research is a platform for people dedicated to researching the Flensburg Fjord. This approach is intended to connect as many areas of interest as possible and enable researchers to network via this platform. Research can be a lot of fun, even in a group, and joint publishing brings greater prestige and recognition in society. Joining is completely free, and there is no financial interest on the part of fjord - research. Get an idea of our community on the following pages and feel free to join us by registering.
